Carl de Ganahl Takes Exception to Refusal of State Revenue Dep't to Rehear Case

FIRST ACTION OF KIND

Assessment of $433.23 Placed On Life Interest in Estate of $108,307.50

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 23.—An appeal from the refusal of the Department of Revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to grant his petition for reassessment of State personal property tax has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county by Carl de Ganahl, of 430 Radcliffe street, Bristol. This is the first action of the kind to be taken in Bucks county according to Deputy Prothonotary Horace Myers.

DeGanahl is appealing from the assessment of $433.23, the amount of tax on life interest in an estate estimated at $108,307.50. The appeal is being handled by Isaac C. Vanartsdalen, local attorney together with a Philadelphia law firm.

Hold Two in Bail For Probe of Drowning of Man

BURLINGTON, N. J., Aug. 23.—Thomas Loveland, 24, and Earl Lockard, 26, 315 Penn street, who were with William Brelsford who drowned in the Delaware River, near Bordentown, following a collision between an outboard boat and cruiser, were held in bail yesterday as material witnesses. The drowning occurred early Saturday morning. Loveland was held in $1,000 bail and Lockard, $500.

Brelsford, known as a proficient swimmer, sank in the 40 foot channel after the two boats collided, while Loveland and Lockard were able to swim to safety.

For more than twelve hours boatloads of grapplers and divers from the Florence Township Beach patrol searched the channel for the body. It was finally recovered Saturday afternoon at 2:50 o'clock with the aid of a grappling hook. The body was in a sitting position with the arms folded in front when recovered.

Brelsford was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Brelsford.

Vandals Break Windows
In St. Charles' School

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 23.—Eighteen windows were broken in St. Charles parochial school, Bristol Pike, here, it was discovered when officials of the parish arrived at the school yesterday.

It is presumed that stones were hurled through the windows on the north side of the building late Sunday evening or during the night. Numerous stones were found lying upon the floor.

The 18 panes which were smashed measure approximately 34x42 feet.

Members of Pennsylvania Motor Police were notified.

BEAUTY PRESERVATION IS TOPIC FOR DISCUSSION

Delaware Valley Protective Association Holds Annual Meeting at New Hope

OVER 1500 MEMBERS

NEW HOPE, Aug. 23.—The Delaware Division canal, one of Pennsylvania's most picturesque streams under normal conditions, is saved for the people of the State, but to what extent it will be restored to its original beauty, somewhat depends on the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania which is being anxiously awaited the week of September 26, when that body meets in Pittsburgh.

At the sixth annual meeting of the Delaware Valley Protective Association, Friday night, at Phillips Mill, New Hope, the status of the picturesque canal which traverses Bucks county's eastern border through the internationally famous artists' colony, was discussed at length from the legal angle by Thomas Ross, Doylestown, attorney for the Delaware Valley Protective Association.

In a recent decision handed down in the Dauphin county courts, concerning the ownership of the canal, it was ruled that the canal which was once turned over to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for maintenance and park purposes, could not be accepted by the State and that it belonged to the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company.

"The decision in the Dauphin County courts was wholly wrong on the legal issue, in my opinion," declared Attorney Ross. "A brief was filed after that decision, on behalf of the Delaware Valley Protective Association and all members and the case then appealed to the Supreme Court. We are awaiting that decision now. It may or may not be favorable, but the delay in handing down the decision gives us courage. The next Session of the Supreme Court will meet in Pittsburgh September 26."

Phillips Mill was filled to capacity for the annual meeting presided over by Moses J. Coyle, Point Pleasant, who was re-elected president of the association, when representatives of various organizations in Bucks county and adjoining counties renewed their support to the Association's cause.

Probably one of the outstanding highlights of the meeting was the report of the chairman of the membership committee, Dr. Francis Wade, of Smithtown, who announced the present membership of the association at 1500 compared to 1050 in 1936 and 1107 in 1937. The associated members of the association now number approximately 150,000 and live in various sections of the United States.

At the last Philadelphia Flower Show, 13,000 persons signed a petition asking that the Delaware Division Canal be preserved. Dr. Wade also announced that here were 232 renewals of membership and that 76 new members had been recorded, people who never belonged before.

With all bills paid, the treasury of the association shows a balance of $511.65, William F. Jaeger, New Hope, reported. William Francis Taylor, secretary of the association, gave a very thorough annual report on the activities of the association.

"It is not so much a question of money with us now as it is getting some real hard work accomplished," Secretary Taylor, a pioneer in the Delaware Valley preservation movement, declared. He said that 26 other clubs have become affiliated with the association which accounts for the rapidly-increasing associate membership.

The American Legion of Pennsylvania, the volunteer firemen's associations of the State and many other groups of men and women are being enrolled in the cause of the Delaware Valley "because it is a 100 per cent Pennsylvania preservation proposition."

Secretary Taylor pointed out. Secretary Taylor stated that one of the biggest moves made by the association was when the Council for the Preservation of Natural Beauty in Pennsylvania became an affiliated member.

During the business session the following officers were elected: President, Moses J. Coyle, Point Pleasant; vice-presidents, Horace G. Prall, Lambertville, N. J., and Mrs. James M. Shellenger, Doylestown; treasurer, William F. Jaeger, New Hope; secretary, William F. Taylor, Lambertville; historian, Mrs. Edward A. Briggs, Newtown.

Th directors appointed are as follows: New Hope, Russell VanNest Black, Charles J. Lindenmayer, Paul Niemeyer, Thomas Marshall, Louis Faulkner; Lambertville, John C. Hazen; Washington Crossing, C. Cooper Pidcock; Titusville, N. J., E. R. Sherbaum, William H. Blackwell; Yardley, Fred C. Cook, Lewis C. Lee.

WRITES TO COURIER ASKING CADETS TO GIVE DRILL DEMONSTRATION
FOR BENEFIT OF BRISTOL RESIDENTS

Courier Reader Does Not Sign Name, But Says He Thinks Cadet Corps Should Show Their Ability for Residents Here — Campaign for Funds Progressing — All Are Urged to Contribute at Once.

An appeal for a public demonstration by the Junior Cadet Corps of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, has been received by the Courier. The author of the appeal did not sign his or her name, and ordinarily such a communication would be discarded, as no attention is ever paid to such letters. Due to the fact that the Cadets are now engaged in making a drive for "Uniform Maintenance Fund of $2500," and the letter apparently was written by an interested individual, it was decided to publish this letter.

It reads:

"Editor, Courier:

Will you please put an article in your paper about our Cadets. We hear about our Cadets winning a championship. They always 'get us' on tag days, poppy day, etc. But we never see any drills with which they won, so why not give us a 'Bristol Day' and show us their stuff."

The letter is signed "A Citizen and Taxpayer."

The letter is here printed just as it was written, and evidently comes from one who is really interested in the Cadets.

The campaign for the fund for the Cadets is now well under way, and an urgent appeal is made to residents in this area to contribute. The Cadet Corps had to have new uniforms and the Bracken Post obligated itself to pay for them, so that the Corps could participate with credit in the competition held Friday in connection with the annual convention of the American Legion.

It is planned to end the drive for funds on August 30th, and it is hoped that all contributions will be in hand by that time. Donations may be sent to the Bristol Trust Company.

Exiled Monarch of Spain is Now in Italy—Has Given Franco Aid

WANTS HIS JOB BACK

By Frank Gervasi
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938)

ROME, Aug. 23.—(INS)—Unemployed King Alfonso XIII. of Spain is planning to get his old job back.

But not permanently. Aside from the fact that he likes his freedom too much to be tied down to the serious task of administering a nation's destinies, he is well aware that what is left of the Spanish people when the bombers get through with them may be won't want him permanently.

Alfonso plans to pave the way for his 25-year-old son, Juan, Prince of the Asturias, and an old favorite of the Spanish people.

This and more Alfonso has broadly hinted to friends as he serves out what he believes to be the last days of his exile in the gayer circles of Rome's society.

Alfonso, International News Service learned on unimpeachable authority, has sunk a huge portion of the fortune he salted away in France before leaving his throne in Old Castile, in the cause of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

A Patent Sought!

By "The Stroller"

A family which formerly resided in South Langhorne and which has been visiting relatives in Hulterville and Parkland for several weeks, is now ready to return home to St. Petersburg, Fla., with the pet bull-dog riding on her deluxe cushioned seat.

So enjoyable did the little "roost" invented for the dog prove to the canine, and so convenient for the family on the trip, that the wife states she will have it patented.

The dog always insists on sitting on someone's knees so he can put his nose out the window, sniff the air, and see all that he passes. This was not looked forward to by the one whose knees he favored on a four-day trek each way. So a small shelf with angular metal supports was taken from the refrigerator, and attached to the car door. A small pillow, just big enough to cover the shelf, was fashioned, and the dog was set thereon.

There he sits, views the world in passing, and sniffs and sniffs at the fresh air. And the best part of it all is the fact that no one has scratched knees, and the "purr" does not have to be disturbed when a stop is made, as the shelf merely swings open with the door.

Needs Your Support

The following contributions have been received by the committee of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, which is conducting a campaign to raise a "Uniform Maintenance Fund of $2500" so that the Cadets may remain an active organization. Contributions as well as written endorsements are asked. Contributions may be sent to "Uniform Maintenance Fund, Bristol Trust Company Depository." Burgess Clifford L. Anderson is honorary chairman of the Legion committee.

MAY PLACE CROSSING AT GRADE IN MORRISVILLE

Consider Enaction of Ordinance Regulating Hours of Drilling Coal Cars

BRIDGE IN BAD STATE

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 23.—The question of enacting an ordinance regulating hours for drilling cars to the coal yards here, is being considered by Morrisville borough council, with a view to having the canal bridge on West Bridge street removed. It is planned to have a grade crossing established there.

It is believed that if drilling is done during the early morning hours when automobile traffic is light, the State might permit a grade crossing.

A railroad spur, which was placed in the bed of the canal at the time the stream was banded as a waterway for transportation, is what has prevented the removal of the bridge in the past. The State Highway Department has looked with disfavor on a grade crossing but members of council have been informed that an ordinance regulating the time for drilling of cars may solve the question.

Morrisville Borough authorities have for many years been trying to have this dangerous span removed. Hearings were held before the old Public Service Commission, plans were drawn, meetings held by all parties interested, but no definite action was ever taken. The dangerous bridge is still the scene of many accidents, and recently one of the crashes resulted in the death of the driver of an automobile.

The bridge is also reported to be

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS

"As the third anniversary of the enactment of the Social Security Act approaches, there are doubtless millions of people in this country who believe that the Government of the United States has under lock and key in Washington a large reserve fund which will continue to grow with the years and ultimately pay the old-age pensions to which every contributor to this fund is entitled upon retirement. Unfortunately this is not the case. Under present circumstances the old-age reserve fund is a fraud and a delusion."

—New York Times.

Has anyone thought to test the tensile strength of the Roosevelt coat-tails?

—Washington Post.

No-body can deny that the spenders in Washington, who seem to be aiming at the biggest deficit in history, have made a good start. During the first month of the fiscal year they have piled up a 450 million deficit. If they can keep up this rate the year-end deficit will be half a billion bigger than President Roosevelt's estimate.

..... The American people as a whole are not hard of hearing. But they haven't heard even a whisper of economy from Washington. It will be no surprise if, after the election, Mr. Roosevelt presents a revised budget—revised upward, of course—with another deficit guess running over five billions.

Hungary Joins Nazi Camp

(Copyright, 1938)

Budapest, Aug. 23.—Adolph Hitler today virtually exploded the little entente by bringing Hungary to the Nazi camp of nations.

He persuaded Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, to reject a non-aggression pact with Czechoslovakia, and at the same time had the satisfaction of seeing Hungary obtain from the little entente conference at Bled, Yugoslavia, the right to re-arm without concession.

In government and diplomatic quarters here, the joint development was viewed as a striking victory for Nazi Germany and represented Hitler's driving campaign to spread brown shirt influence down the Danube valley.

Helen Wills Moody Withdraws

New York, Aug. 23.—With her career finished with tournament tennis, Helen Wills Moody today announced her withdrawal from the National Championships, to be staged next month at Forest Hills.

In a letter to the United States Lawn Tennis Association, Mrs. Moody blamed an attack of neuritis for her action. By her mention of the "happy time" she had enjoyed as a tournament player and her reference to "kind treatment" accorded her by tennis officials in the past, indicated she was withdrawing permanently from the game. Possibility of her permanent retirement was carried out by the fact Mrs. Moody returned to the Association a check for $1309.45, representing the amount given her for traveling and other expenses during foreign competition this summer.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—At a hearing before Magistrate Panetta, held yesterday, Flanagan, a detective, said some of the robberies which have been reported in the Kensington district, might be solved by the arrest of Roy Clark, 22, Fergusonville; and John Borschell, 19, Frankford.

Both were held without bail for a further hearing tomorrow.

Clark and Borschell were arrested Sunday night, allegedly fleeing from the home of Fred Henshaw, Hancock street.

Clark, according to the officers, admitted attempting to rob the Henshaw home. Flanagan said loot valued at $800 was found in Clark's room.

LIMERICK PARTIES ARE MUCH IN FAVOR

Style of Answers Show Groups Are Meeting and Searching Ads for Proper Words

ANNOUNCE WINNERS

Limerick Parties are all the rage just now! On Tuesday evening or Wednesday evening they are generally held, in order to assure the answers to The Bristol Courier Limericks getting to The Courier office by three o'clock Thursday afternoons, the time for closing of the contests each week.

In numerous instances, answers are received that are identical in size, shape, handwriting, or typing, showing that parties of two, three, four, or more seek for the answers, and then one person sends in the answer for each in the group.

Four members of one family and two members of two other families answered last week's limericks, showing that the entire family is interested in this newest pastime, which really pays.

One resident of Langhorne has been so keen about the contest that she did not fail to send in an answer until two weeks ago. Then the following week her answer was accompanied by a note which said: "Last week when I received The Courier, the advertisement sheet was missing, so I could not send in the answers to your limericks. This spoiled my record for not missing to send answers for the entire 13 weeks. I'm sorry."

Residents of Langhorne, Hulmeville, Edgely, Newportville, Bristol, Bristol Township, Andalusia, Ridley Park, Newtown, and Tullytown answered two limericks appearing in last Tuesday's edition of The Courier.

For one of last week's limericks only six people had the correct last lines, but win or lose, The Courier readers still stick to their pleasant task. The "stickler" was this line: "Win some Jack, I'm your Jill. Don't be slow."

The full limerick was: Bill Smith was just rarin' to go, But he found that he needed some dough.

So his girl said, "Why, man, Be a Limerick fan!" "Win some Jack, I'm your Jill. Don't be slow."

The winners of this limerick are: $3, Mrs. Howard Mitchell, Box 27, Tullytown; $2, Miss Margaret Oliver, 543 Bath street; $1, Miss Dora Waldron, R. D. No. 1, Bristol.

The correct words for the last line were found in advertisements of: J. S. Lynn, Factors-to-You Furniture Company, Wolson's Hardware Store, Moffo's Shoe Shop, Woiler's Paint and Wall-paper Store, Auto Boys, J. S. Fine, Marty Green's Army & Navy Store, Hardy's Shoe Shop.

The second limerick and correct last line follow: Fred Goller at last reached the green At the cost of twelve strokes and much spleen.

Then three putts went awry Which, dear friends, may be why He was "putt" in the bug-house, I ween.

Winners of this limerick are: $3, Mrs. Roland Quinn, Tullytown; $2, Mrs. William T. Crawford, Edgely; $1, Lois A. Lange, Andalusia.

The words in their order were found in advertisements of: Edward T. Finegan, A. B. Shoemaker, H. B. Eastburn and O. Grupp, Dowden Engineering Company, Simpson's, Wetherill Service Station, Elwood R. Dyer, Weed Chevrolet Company.

And the contest continues, for two more limericks appear today. You won't know what real fun limerick contests can be until you try them. The rules are clearly stated. Follow them and win one, two or three dollars.

MEETING TONIGHT

The Women of the Moose Lodge, No. 763, will hold their semi-monthly meeting, tonight at eight o'clock sharp. Members are asked to make an effort to be present on time.

Apparently centered in the Delaware River Valley, a series of five earthquakes rocked a portion of eastern Pennsylvania and adjacent New Jersey, and Delaware shortly before last midnight and early this morning.

The shocks were distinctly felt in Bristol and surrounding towns. But according to a telephone survey the shocks were confined to lower Bucks County and did not reach the middle or upper sections of the county.

They were some of the strongest disturbances on record in this vicinity. The intensity varied according to location. Doylestown reported that little or no disturbance was felt there.

In Bristol some felt three heavy shocks, others report five.

The police telephone switchboard was flooded with calls and the night man was unable to answer them all.

The Bell Telephone Company, Bristol office, reported increased toll calls, many being interested in learning about the tremors.

Work at High School Stopped by Labor Dispute

Work on the addition and alterations to the high school building came to a halt this morning when orders went out to cease operations due to labor difficulties.

Trouble arose, it is said, when the contractor imported workmen from Montgomery County and had them registered at the Perma. Unemployment Office here and then assigned to the job. It was to this that local labor objected and action was taken.

It was also stated that the contractor used men designated as "key" men who were not "key" men and in this way he was able to use more than the specified number of out-of-town help.

The Buildings Trades Council was consulted and all work stopped on the job.

An effort was made to get a statement from the Buildings Trades Council but the man in charge could not be contacted up until noon today.

The executive committee of the Morrisville Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the installation of sewers and a sewage disposal plant for Morrisville.

PWA officials, who have heard that Morrisville is considering the project have contacted Borough Solicitor Willard S. Curth and stated that the Federal Government looks with much favor on such improvements and it is believed that if the borough makes application now the grant will undoubtedly be made.

The Chamber of Commerce committee also endorsed the removal of the canal bridge on West Bridge street and the removal of the old trolley rails on East Trenton avenue. It was pointed out that both the bridge and the rails are extremely dangerous to the traveling motorists. The commerce body will aid Common Council in its efforts to have these hazards removed.

Announcement has been made by County Agent William F. Greenwalt, Doylestown, that the Bucks County 4-H Club camp will be in operation at Camp Onas, near Penn's Park, from Monday, August 22, until Friday, August 26.

Wednesday, August 24, has been announced, will be observed as Guest Day, and club members not attending the camp have been invited to attend. Their parents and friends have also been invited.

The program, which will include all kinds of games, including water sports will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. In the evening there will be a camp.

Former King Hopes To Re-Establish Monarchy

and the former monarch of all the paniards is astute, tight-lipped Juan March, whom Alphonso meets frequently in his royal suite at the Grand Hotel.

It is a confirmed fact, however, that neither March nor Alphonso have had personal contact with Mussolini, who is not only too busy, but can't hide Alphonso anyhow.

To a friend of this correspondent, Alphonso recently admitted:

"I will only too gladly return to Spain if I am called to my country. I never abdicated."

One of the couriers between Spanish monarchists and Alphonso was Antonio Coigoechea who has either been killed by government agents or has gone into hiding. He was a frequent visitor of the luxurious suite in the Grand Hotel immediately after the outbreak and during the early stages of the Spanish civil war. He hasn't been seen in Rome, however, for months.

It is said the Vatican would favor a return of the monarchy to Spain, preferably under Don Juan.

That a return to his country is contemplated by the gay-living, heavy-jowled Bourbon is indicated by more than one seemingly unimportant but deeply significant incident.

Chief of the scraps of gossip offered by Rome society members as proof Alphonso dreams of Castles in Old Castille is the fact a virtual reconciliation has been effected between him and Queen Ena.

Recent birth of a son to the Infanta Beatrice, wife of Prince Alexander of Torlonia, brought a touching cradle-scene of affection between the former King and Queen. Alphonso boisterously picked the glacial Queen Ena up in his arms and swung her about the room when the nurse brought the child. Together they knelt by the cradle and murmured unintelligible sweet nothings to the gurgling babe.

Not many nights ago Alphonso publicly kissed Ena at a local swank movie theatre where films are shown in original English, French and American versions, and where nightly congregate the upper crust of Rome's socialite pie—the crumbling aristocracies of Italy, France, Spain, the diplomatic corps and a smattering of Romans.

Alphonso spends most of his time gallivanting about in night-clubs, theatres and the better and more secluded restaurants. Between parties and theatres he plays a serious game of bridge. He is seldom alone.

Occasionally he disappears from his swank suite at the Grand Hotel and it is rumored on such interludes that he's gone to confer with Franco, or is closeted with secret agencies.

Predicted Trouble

Philadelphia, Aug. 23—Warning that trouble was brewing behind the gray walls of Holmesburg County Prison was given five months ago by the Ruth Legislative Commission, it was recalled today.

While state, county and city officials investigated the death of four convicts, leaders of a prison hunger strike, others recalled a lurid report on the prison given by the Commission in its recently ended probe of criminal justice in Pennsylvania.

Sixteen "tough guy" convicts were "running things" among the inmates of the grim county institution, the report charged, adding that a large section of the prison population was waiting to avenge itself on the self-appointed leaders.

Panama City, Aug. 23 — Governor

The Governor's wife will leave here by a Pan-American Airways plane, tomorrow, meeting Earle at Brownsville, Texas.

LOOKING FORWARD

By Franklyn Waltman

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

In view of recent events there can be little doubt that a determined effort is and will be made to renominate President Roosevelt for a third term. Most of the maneuvering and strategy on the Democratic side this year is aimed in that direction.

For instance, it is clear that the New Deal is fighting in a number of State primaries this year in order to control the delegations from those States in 1940. Moreover, the usual forerunners of Presidential renominations are making their appearance—"third term" clubs, "spontaneous" petitions and the talk of jobholders.

It is not so clear that the President has inspired this movement, although many of his close friends do not think he would be adverse to a third term nomination under the proper circumstances. The movement, however, is being inspired by the Roosevelt satellites dependent on his continuance in office for jobs—the Hopkines, the Ickeses, the Keenans and the horde of Federal jobholders throughout the Nation—men who would revert to being nobodies the minute Mr. Roosevelt leaves the White House.

The desire of these men to keep Mr.

Roosevelt in office is understandable—it means keeping themselves in jobs. Undoubtedly Harold (Donald Duck) Ickes has pondered how drab life would be as a lawyer back in Chicago and undoubtedly Harry Hopkins shivers when he thinks of going back to beating the sidewalks of New York's slums as a social worker. They are the real coat-tail riders.

These men realize the deep-seated hostility of the American people against a President remaining in office for more than two terms. So they are building up a picture of the desire of benevolent, kindly Mr. Roosevelt to return to his fields and woods unless—and here they take another breath—unless circumstances arise that would make it impossible for him to lay down his burden. What circumstances, you ask? Oh, a war, with or without threat of our involvement or an equally acute emergency. In that event, we are solemnly told, Mr.

Roosevelt "is not the kind of individual who would let his personal desires interfere with what seemed to him to be his duty."

Piffle and hooey! No doubt there will be an emergency around in 1940. Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers always can conjure up an emergency when it suits their convenience. If one does not happen along, they'll create one. Remember in March 1937 when Mr. Roosevelt was fighting to pack the Supreme Court, he told the country a crisis was just around the corner. It was under the guise of dealing with an emergency that the worst of the New Deal legislation has been enacted.

At all events, far be it from Republicans to discourage such an undertaking. By the use of such tactics Mr. Roosevelt's friends may be able to force his renomination in 1940, especially since the two-thirds rule has been abrogated and the continuance of the unit rule in effect would permit his renomination by an actual minority of the delegates.

But he will never be re-elected for a third term, emergency or no emergency. In the first place this cry of "emergency" has been over-done and the current talk about a third term has caused a great many people to wonder whether the real object of the Roosevelt Administration is not to perpetuate itself in power.

Somehow all this talk about a third term and Mr. Roosevelt's Democratic purge, especially in Georgia, recalls to mind a passage in Plato's Republic where the great Greek philosopher is describing a tyrant, which is the classic term for dictator.

"The people have always some champion whom they set over them and nurse into greatness," said Plato. "This and no other is the root from which a tyrant springs; when he first appears above ground he is a projector. . . .

"At first, in the early days of his power, he is full of smiles, and he salutes everyone whom he meets; he is to be called a tyrant, who is making promises in public and also in private! Liberating debtors and distributing land to the people and his followers, and wanting to be so kind and good to everyone!

"But when he has disposed of foreign enemies by conquest or treaty, and there is nothing to fear from them, then he is always stirring up some war or other, in order that the people may require a leader.

"Has he not also another object, which is that they may be impoverished by payment of taxes and thus compelled to devote themselves to their daily wants and therefore less likely to conspire against him?

"And if any of them are suspected by him of having notions of freedom, and of resistance to his authority, he will have a good pretext for destroying them by placing them at the mercy of the enemy; and for all these reasons the tyrant must be always getting up a war.

"Now he begins to grow unpopular. Then some of those who joined in setting him up, and who are in power, speak their minds to him and to one another, and the more courageous of them cast in his teeth what is being done. . . . He is the enemy of them all, and must seek occasion against them whether he will or no, until he has made a purgation of the State."

So wrote Plato almost four hundred years before the Christian era began.

SUDBURY, Mass.—(INS)—Low-flying airplanes have so excited mink that they sometimes desert their young ranchers in this vicinity. Fearing mortality among the animals, ranchers were speculating whether they have grounds for damage claims.

"Fastest-Growing" Pennsylvania Industry

Most "mushroom" industries spring up quickly, then vanish abruptly; but the Pennsylvania mushroom growing business is a permanent part of the State's varied industrial scene. A $4,000,000-a-year industry, Pennsylvania mushroom growing centers around the southeastern part of the State, where 90 per cent. of America's supply is grown.

Florence Brannigan, Madison street, and Miss Barbara Lynch, Trenton avenue, on Friday morning, attended the commencement exercises of Rider College, Trenton, N. J., at which time, Miss Mary Brannigan, received her diploma in a secretarial course.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL

All the gaiety and glamor of a native Mexican fiesta filled the Bristol Theatre last night when Paramount's musical romance of life below the Rio Grande, "Tropic Holiday," had its local opening.

While such important stars as Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Bob Burns and Martha Raye go through their paces in a light-hearted story, the Mexican touch is supplied by an unbeatable collection of native entertainers and a series of sparkling songs from the pen of Augustin Lara, the "Irving Berlin of Latin America." Although the songs of "Tropic Holiday" can not be forgotten, the plot is far stronger than in most screen musicals and is present every minute. It concerns a romantic-minded Hollywood writer who goes to Mexico "to get away from it all" and succumbs completely to the charms of the natives, particularly those of one of the señoritas, the exotic Miss Lamour.

Bob Burns, as the would-be Senator from Oklahoma, and tireless suitor of Miss Raye, has one of the comic-philosophical roles he likes best of any he plays.

TO PLAY BENEFIT BALL GAME WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Landreth's field will be the site of the Hulmeville A. A. - Rohm and Haas benefit game Wednesday night. It was previously announced that the tilt would be played on the Maple Beach diamond but Dave Landreth generously donated the use of his ball diamond for the affair. The game is a benefit affair for George Dougherty, well known Bristol athlete who was injured several weeks ago.

Howard Black who is managing the Hulmeville team states that it is hardly possible to get the Hulmeville team together on so short a notice but he will get as many of the team's players as possible and then fill in with players from the Landreth's Seeds and the Bristol Twilight League.

Some of the players Black intends to use are: Dutch Afflerbach, Vic Rockhill, Leo Hibbs, Ike Watson, Eddie Liberatore, Joe Roe, Henny Morgan, Sid Purcell, Punkie Zeffries and Milt Jones.

RAIN POSTPONES BOUTS

fire and an interesting program will be presented. Visitors have been requested to take picnic supper with them. In case of rain, Guest Day will be observed on August 25.

Forty-six boys will be enrolled in the camp this year.

A memorial service for William I. Wilkinson, a charter member and director of the Sellersville Kiwanis Club, was conducted at the opening of the club's meeting on Thursday evening. Mr. Wilkinson died in Grand View Hospital, Sellersville, on Monday morning.

Clarence S. Daub, the president, read a resolution prepared by a committee consisting of himself, Marco G. Bean, the secretary, and J. V. Chapman. Mr. Daub ordered this to be included on the minutes of the meeting and a copy to be sent to Mr. Wilkinson's widow. To conclude the service the hymn, "Abide With Me," was sung and a prayer was offered by Rev. J. R. Shepley.

Quakertown Borough Council, at a special meeting, accepted the offer of the United States Government, made August 12, to grant PWA aid in the financing of a new town hall.

The government's offer is for an outright grant of 45 per cent. of the cost of the project, and not to exceed $22,770.

It is estimated that the town hall will cost $51,000.

The offer stipulates that the building must be started within eight weeks of the date of the offer and must be completed within six months.

Council's next move will be to advertise for bids on four separate contracts, general, heating, plumbing and electrical.

This will be done as soon as the necessary forms have been filed as required by PWA.

All Council members were present except Councilman Laubach, who was out of town.

The Yardley Country Club announces a lawn festival, dance and golf tournament for Saturday, September 17, that promises to be the biggest affair ever scheduled by the Pennsylvania organization. William K. Paff, chairman of the committee arranging the affair, will preside at a committee meeting Tuesday night at the clubhouse to further plans for the event. The clubhouse grounds will be brilliantly illuminated with colored electric lights and Japanese lanterns, with a swing orchestra to furnish music for dancing on a specially constructed outdoor floor.

A program of vaudeville will feature.

A two-day 36-hole handicap golf tournament is listed as another feature of the program, with an 18-hole round on Saturday and a second 18-hole round Sunday. More than a score of prizes will be given winners.

In accepting office for another term, President Coyle thanked his associates for the fine spirit of co-operation during the past year and asked for continued "hard work and service" during the next 12 important months.

"The canal is saved, I can safely say that but we want it restored to its original condition," President Coyle stated.

The distinguished guest of the meeting was Dr. Joseph McGoldrick, Comptroller of New York City, whose home is in Solebury township.

"A job such as the Delaware Valley Protective Association is attempting to carry out is not done by talking but by hard work," Dr. McGoldrick declared. "I don't know anything about your politics in Pennsylvania, for I have plenty of that sort of thing in New York, but I do know that things can be accomplished by hard work in the right way. I do know that your region here has a great attraction for a nerve-racking city job-holder. Solebury is not far from New York City, less than two hours ride. I know of no other region in the country that has so many historic places and fine places to live as Bucks county—a splendid combination. And your canal should by all means be restored and preserved. The canal has wonderful potentialities for beauty and for recreational purposes. All these things you have here in Bucks county and especially in the Delaware Valley, caused me to choose Bucks county as my home, both summer and winter, for it is just as beautiful in the winter as in the summer."

"I am particularly interested in the preservation of beauty and I am 100 per cent against all unsightly road signs. Anything that I can do to help win your cause, I will most gladly offer."

Charles A. Rowe, of Doylestown, president of the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs of Bucks County, assured the association members that the sportsmen of Bucks county were 100 per cent behind the Delaware Division Canal preservation movement.

He spoke of the stream-improvement work being carried on by the sportsmen through WPA assistance, and explained that in every instance, wherever possible, the natural beauty of the streams are preserved. Pollution, he pointed out, has hindered fishing in a lot of Bucks county streams, but this condition is being remedied in many instances he told the members. The work of the sportsmen ties in very closely with the Delaware Valley Protective Association projects, Mr. Rowe assured them. Mr. Rowe said that the Bucks County Commissioners have been of very valuable assistance to the sportsmen of the county in stream-improvement work.

Bowman's Hill State Wild Flower Preserve at Washington Crossing Park, two miles below New Hope, was explained in detail by W. Wilson Heintzsch, of Chestnut Hill, director of the preserve. He stated that between 325 and 350 species of plants native to Pennsylvania have now been planted at the park, which is looked upon now as a national shrine.

"One of the very fine things that we have accomplished at Bowman's Hill Preserve," Mr. Heintzsch said, "is to cut down the vandalism and desecration to practically nothing, something that other sections of the State marvel at when informed."

"You cannot bring people into Bucks county and make it over, you have to preserve its beauty and charm, for there is no more beautiful county in the country. All the effort your association puts forth, will well repay you as individuals. At Bowman's Hill we have accomplished much and we have one of the finest wild flower preserves in the country, with beautiful trails, all well-marked."

The united support of all the volunteer firemen of Bucks county was offered by James E. Groome, Yardley, president of the Bucks County Firemen's Association for 23 years.

"Our job as firemen has been to preserve the natural beauty of Bucks county," Mr. Groome declared. "We have been doing this by keeping down the fire losses, especially in the rural sections when possible."

Mr. Groome urged members of the association to do what they can to bring about better control of grass fires in Bucks county. He also pointed out the value of the Delaware Division Canal as a fire protection, and the importance of restoring the canal for that purpose in addition to many others.

Filled with sound advice and good common sense, the talk given by Mrs. C. C. Zantlinger, of Chestnut Hill, representing the Council For The Preservation of Beauty Spots in Pennsylvania, was an appropriate wind-up for an enthusiastic annual meeting. She impressed everyone with her enthusiasm.

Mrs. Zantlinger assured the association members that she has been broadcasting the Delaware Valley canal preservation project throughout the entire state. She said that in her opinion the clubs in central and western Pennsylvania should be just as much interested in the restoration of the Lehigh Division Canal as a canal in the western section for it is "a Pennsylvania preservation project," something that attracts people to the State.

"It is a case of preserving the natural beauty of Pennsylvania, throughout the State, not just in one section," Mrs. Zantlinger declared. "The canal to me does not seem to be honest-to-goodness saved, in spite of what your president said tonight. The Delaware Valley should be a part of the proposed 'Pennsylvania park system.' We are hoping the canal goes back to the State but if it does not, what then are we going to work for? Let us be prepared by all means for the next move. Do not wait! Let's all work together but let us plan ahead for your organization now, an organization which is nationally known at this time."

"Get a planning group and plan ahead for years to come, for if you don't it will not be long before 'hot dog' stands and whatnot will line your beautiful canal."

Before adjournment a resolution was passed authorizing the secretary to communicate with the secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters, expressing the importance of placing the Delaware Valley canal section on the proposed "State park system."

Upon the suggestion of Louis Faulkner, former Deputy Chamberlain of New York City, now a resident of New Hope, a motion was passed to appoint a planning committee composed of officers of the association and a few members who are located along the canal to work out the strategy of approach in all future matters concerning the restoration of the canal so that "the association will not be caught asleep." Mr. Faulkner was made chairman of the committee with power to appoint his associates.

Profound Sleep

A New Kind of Mattress
A Van Sciver Creation

Master Mattresses with Non-Sagging Center

SOFT and luxurious as down. Assures the tranquil ease of unbroken slumber—the soft allure of the land o'dreams.

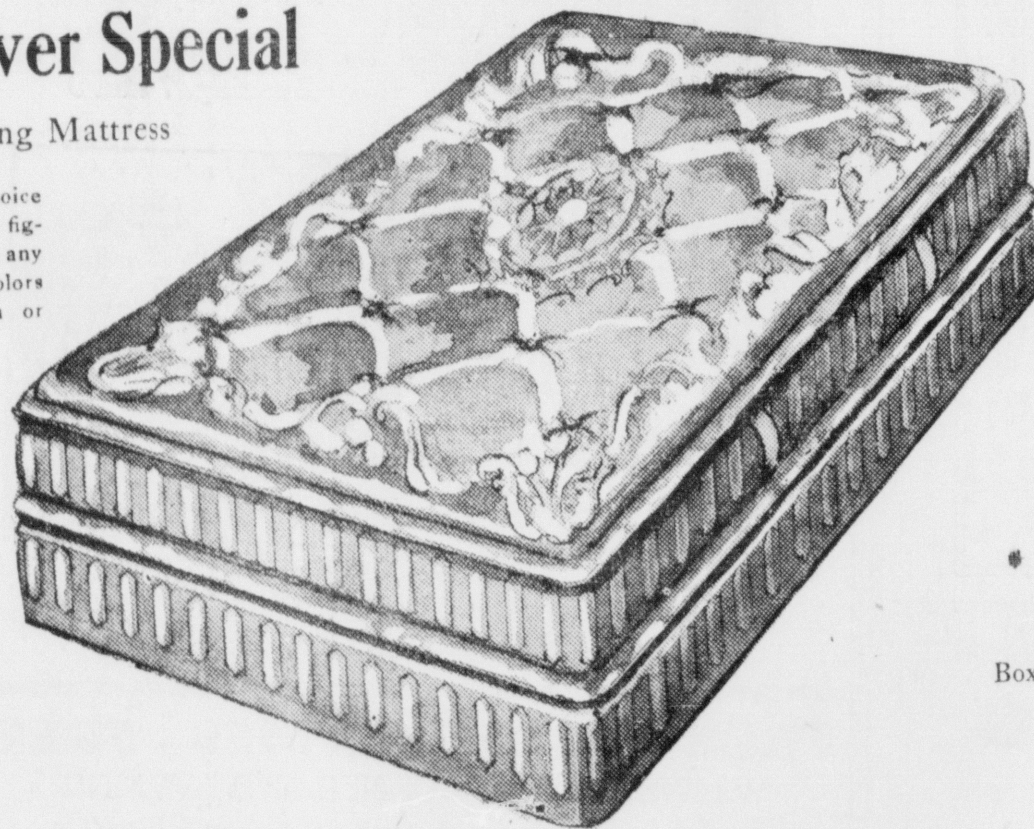

AN INNOVATION in the Mattress world. The Inner Springs of these Mattresses are so ingeniously constructed that the central units rise to a slight oval where the body rests, and sink to a resiliently uniform level when under the body's weight—thus preventing the annoying sagging that interferes with sound sleep. Center of Mattress is especially made of heavier gauge coil.

The best Mattresses at the best values we know of anywhere
